Pact has named the first 12 members of its slimmed down council.

TwoFour chief executive Charles Wace will remain chair of the new-look council for the next two years.

Wace will be joined by three representatives from the nations:

- Richard Staniforth from Green Bay Media (Wales);
- David Strachan, chairman and joint managing director Tern Television Productions (Scotland);
- Jannine Waddell from Waddell Media (Northern Ireland)

Other members, include:

- Malcolm Brinkworth, managing director of Touch Productions;
- Jane Turton, director of business affairs and deputy chief operating officer at All3Media;
- Beryl Vertue, founder of Hartswood Films.

They are joined by:

- Andrea Calderwood, managing director of Slate Films;
- Andrew Chitty, managing director of Illumina Digital;
- Michael Hurl, founder of Michael Hurl Television;
- Debbie Manners, chief operating officer at Hat Trick Productions;
- Mike Watts, co-founder and managing director of Novel Entertainment.

The first new members of the newly revamped Pact council were announced at the Pact AGM on 3 December.
